

Candy Riem is the Vice President of Marketing and Customer Services at Midwest Energy & Communications. She provides strategic leadership for new product/service development and integration, and oversees a comprehensive and integrated marketing plan design to build awareness and increase sales of cooperative and subsidiary products and services. Candy's first love is working with the customers, and works closely with her team on providing a first-in-class customer service experience across all platforms.