

Jamie Scripps is a Senior Associate with the U.S. Climate Alliance, where she supports the Midwestern Alliance states (at present Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin) in developing and implementing climate policy within their states and across the region. In this role, Ms. Scripps collaborates with a variety of stakeholders, including from the NGO, business, agriculture, and labor communities, to expand support for individual state and regional Midwestern climate efforts. Ms. Scripps most recently served as an Expert Consultant with ICF, where she specialized in energy efficiency and combined heat and power (CHP), distributed energy resources (DER) and advanced distribution system policy and advising. Ms. Scripps was also the founder of Hunterston Consulting LLC, where she provided advanced energy policy expertise to clients across the Midwest, and a partner with 5 Lakes Energy LLC, a Michigan-based policy consulting firm.
