

Tim Lubbers – Director of Business Development, Community and Legislative Engagement

Tim holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from University of Missouri and joined SEMCO ENERGY in 1996 to run its industrial marketing programs. Over the past 22 years Tim has served in a variety of roles including sales, marketing, customer communications, asset management, energy efficiency, and public relations. Tim's current responsibilities include residential through industrial sales and marketing, revenue and customer growth, external communications, legislative affairs and corporate philanthropy.