

Kathryn Snorrason is a Managing Director for the Office of Future Mobility and Electrification (OFME) and sits inside the Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC). Kathryn is focused on growing Michigan's mobility and electrification ecosystem and creating safer, more equitable and environmentally conscious transportation solutions for Michigan residents. Prior to joining OFME, Kathryn was a Consultant at Deloitte Consulting and a Manager in the economic development space with World Business Chicago. Kathryn graduated from the University of Michigan, Stephen M. Ross School of Business with a Bachelor of Business Administration and a minor in Community Action and Social Change.