

Andre Hutson is the owner of Conquest Fitness located in DeWitt, Michigan and Hutson Contracting which is based out of Lansing, Michigan. Andre, his wife Morgan and their 2 kids live in East Lansing and have been residents there for 13 years.

Born and raised in Trotwood, Ohio, Andre accepted a full ride athletic scholarship to play basketball for Michigan State University in 1997. While at MSU, Andre accomplished many things including 4 Big Ten titles, 3 Final Four appearances and 1 National Championship in 2000. Andre graduated from MSU in 2001 with a bachelor's degree in Finance.

After his time at MSU, Andre went on to play basketball professionally overseas for 9 years. He played in Italy, Greece, Russia, and Turkey and traveled all over Europe. His time overseas taught him many life lessons and allowed him to build a financial foundation which gave him the opportunity to pursue his entrepreneurial dreams.

Since moving back to the Lansing area, Andre has shown a deep interest in the business community and takes pride in giving back in numerous ways. Some examples include Co-Chairing the Capitol Area United Way campaign, serving on boards such as the Lansing Regional Chamber of Commerce and the Governor's Council for Physical Fitness, and starting his own non-profit organization, the Conquest Health and Fitness Foundation. Andre also runs an AAU travel basketball club called Quest Basketball and offers numerous basketball camps and clinics throughout the year.
